END OF ARGUMENTS IN ELECTION CASE

Judge Christian Will Probably Render Decision Next Week.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

Lynchburg, Va., February 17.—The argument in the contest of the December local option election was concluded this afternoon, Judge A. A. Flegar, of Christiansburg, making the concluding argument for the "drys," who are contesting the election, which went "wet" by eighty-five majority.

About eight hours were consumed in the three sessions of Judge Christian's court, the morning session being taken up with statements by Thos. Whitehead, for the "drys," and Randolph Harrison and J. T. Coleman for the "wets." Mr. Coleman finished at the afternoon session, when Judge Flegar began. Judge Flegar finished at 6 o'clock.

The real issue in the contest narrowed down to the right of the court to review the work of the registrars and election judges. The "wets" deny this right.

A decision is not expected certainly before next week, as Judge Christian took the case under advisement.

It has been brought to the attention of the Chamber of Commerce, and these townships are heartily in favor of annexation, and of the passage of the act for the election desired. The secretary of the chamber has been instructed to at once communicate with Cumberland's representatives in this behalf.

Discuss Grand Camp.

At the weekly meeting last night of R. E. Lee Camp, No. 1, Confederate Veterans, most of the time was consumed in talking about the coming meeting of the Grand Camp at Little Rock. Letters were read from reception committees, outlining the preparations being made for the entertainment of the veterans. The schools, it appears, will be suspended for the week and the old soldiers will be accommodated on beds to be placed in the school houses.

The members of the camp will leave Richmond for the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway.

A somewhat remarkable case occurred in the City Council last night, when Dr. Campbell introduced a resolution criticizing City Attorney Robert W. Withers who was quoted in a newspaper interview as the author of statements telling of the harmful financial effects of local prohibition. After a lively debate, the Council voted six to three that the discussion was out of place, and the resolution was ordered stricken from the record.

EXERCISES HELD AT WAKE FOREST

Annual Celebration of Philomathean and Euzeian Literary Societies.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

Wake Forest, N. C., Feb. 17.—The seventy-sixth anniversary of the Philomathean and Euzeian Literary Societies was celebrated to-day with exercises that were the equal of any that have been held in the history of the societies. There were present more visitors from this and other States than have ever attended similar exercises, and probably more than have ever attended exercises at any college in this State. Besides the great number that arrived yesterday and are here for the entire three days of the festivities, there was run a special train from Raleigh this afternoon bearing many of the State's foremost young women, who are attending colleges in that city, and also a large number from the city itself.

As if determined to equal the social side of the occasion, which was far greater than ever before, the speakers at the debate this afternoon delivered speeches that have seldom, if ever, been equaled by college men in the State. The debate was presided over by Thomas J. Osbourne, of Haywood county, and Walter E. Futrell, of Northampton county, was secretary.

"Resolved, That United States Senators Should Be Elected by a Direct Vote of the People." Each speaker was allowed twenty-five minutes to be more than eight minutes were used in rejoinder. The new style of order was used, in that the side that opened the debate closed it. Thus J. B. Eller, senior debater of the Eu Society, made the opening main speech and closed the rejoinders. C. T. Murchison, senior speaker from the Phi Society, was the first speaker of the negative and C. R. Sharpe, junior debater from the Phi Society, was the second speaker of the affirmative. The main speeches were closed by B. V. Ferguson, junior debater from the Eu Society.

The rejoinders were spirited, and the speakers showed wonderful ability in picking the weak points in their opponent's argument.

The judges were State Senators Gardner and Starbuck, and Rev. Mr. Dunford, and they decided unanimously in favor of the negative.

The orations to-night equalled the usual high standard. J. P. Tucker was the first orator of the evening, his subject being "America as a World Power." W. G. Moore followed him with Causes Much Excitement. Sarah Mann, an aged negro woman, of 217 West Fifteenth Street, was the cause of much excitement here when a call for the police patrol was erroneously sent in for her.

The old woman was held in great esteem by the residents of the neighborhood, both white and colored, so considerable surprise was manifested yesterday when the patrol was seen dashing up to her door and word was passed around that she was too drunk for management. The idle, curious crowd was disappointed, however, as the patrol departed empty.

Sarah, it seems, had been walking, while passing the corner of Cowardin Avenue and Perry Street, she was seized with vertigo and fell to the sidewalk heavily, cutting her forehead in the fall. Some one telephoned to the Third Police Station that there was an unmanageable negro woman drunk at that corner, and an officer was dispatched forthwith.

By some confusion over the telephone the patrol was summoned instead of the ambulance, and this blot upon Sarah's otherwise spotless record.

Repairing Free Bridge. A force of laborers has been at work for the last two days repairing weak boards in the Fred Bridge, and replacing the planks ripped up by the wheels of the two trolley cars which crossed the track on that bridge Monday night.

The repairing and strengthening of this structure is particularly important, as the road is soon to be closed, commences on the new stone bridge. Mayor's bridge will be closed, and all the traffic between the two banks of the river thrown over the Federal bridge. Recent examination by City Engineer, Boiling showed the bridge to be in bad condition, and every effort will be made to strengthen it.

Foebert Ford Convicted. The Oak Grove court yesterday morning Magistrate J. W. Cheatham imposed a fine of three months' road labor on Robert Ford, colored, charged at the time of his arrest with drunkenness. It developed from the tangle of evidence in court yesterday, however, that Ford was a boarder in Clara Hart's house, into which he was supposed to have forced an unlawful entrance. A fine misdemeanor was found to consist of having entered another room, and in the attempt to carry off the furniture, he had become mixed with the whole household.

No reply has been received yet by Magistrate Cheatham to the letter of inquiry to the police of Bluefield, W. Va., as to whether Ford was wanted in that place.

The case against W. H. Ward, charged with peddling in the Southside without a license, was continued until next Friday at the request of Ward's counsel.

Many minor civil cases also came before the court.

Term Begins Monday. The regular February term of the Hustings Court, Part II, will begin Monday morning with Judge E. H. Wells presiding. Many cases, both of civil and criminal nature, will be on the docket, and the prospects are for a long session.

Urged for Appointment. There appears to be much agitation among the residents of Oak Grove in favor of the selection of A. T. Traynor to succeed Officer Watts as special county officer for Oak Grove. He has numerous friends and supporters who are working hard for his success, and his chances look good. There are many opponents that he will have to vanquish before he can assume the duties March 1, and there are working equally as hard for the office.

Squire Cheatham still remains undered, however, and refuses to give out the man of his recommendation.

Williamsburg, Va., February 17.—The Williamsburg Hotel building and the large lot upon which it is located, formerly owned by Mrs. T. F. Johnson, was sold this morning before the court.

The sale was made to satisfy a deed of trust. Captain E. W. Maxnam, of Biglerville, already the largest individual property owner in Williamsburg, bid the property in at $5,300. It will not be operated as a hotel by the new owner.

The pony, ridden by Winder Lane, III, a son of Colonel L. S. Lane, backed into a plate glass window in the millinery store of Mrs. J. L. Slater this morning, smashing the window and inflicting a deep cut on the animal. Young Mr. Lane hastily dismounted and was not injured.

Norwood Apperson, of New Kent, has purchased the residence of Mrs. J. R. Bellamy, lying on the Jamestown Boulevard, a short distance outside of town. The price paid was $2,500. Mr. Apperson also purchased an adjoining lot, belonging to Mrs. A. B. Hutt, for $200. Mr. Apperson contemplates moving here and conducting a boarding house for college students.

John G. Bowman, of New York, was here to-day to investigate the status of the Williams and Mary College as to the Carnegie Foundation. It is thought the college will soon be in position to enjoy the privileges of the foundation, although Mr. Bowman made no statement as to what he would report.
